My Diary Entries

Day 1

Thursday 17th May

Cloudy

What a terrible day! Today at recess, Peter looked at my snacks and asked me, "You have a lot of snacks, can you share some with me?" I replied happily, "Sure, of course." Then he took away all my snacks. I was so shocked that he did something like this.

During the following recess, I was hungry. So, I went to ask Peter for some snacks but he refused to give me any. I felt furious and disappointed. I yelled at him angrily, "You are so selfish, I don't want to be your friend anymore!"

Day 2

Friday 18th May

Sunny

Today I saw Peter after school. He came to give me some snacks. He murmured softly, "I am sorry, Elsa. I shouldn't be that selfish and now I know friends should share things with each other. Please forgive me!"

I answered, "I am sorry too. I shouldn't shout at you rudely."

After that we became friends again. We were as happy as two larks. From this experience, I learned that friends should say sorry to each other after a quarrel, then we can get on with each other again!
